The Newmarket Era. Newmarket, Friday, Dec 20, 1861.

General Summary.

An Extra, criticising the Address in another column, will be issued this evening or tomorrow morning.

The proceedings of the last meeting of both Whitchurch and Boldrewood Councils have been unavoidably crowded out. We shall give them next week.

Talking about oysters, reminds us that Mr. James Nixon keeps constantly on hand a large stock, and is prepared to supply the retail trade at a moment's warning. His XX's are prime.

Those of our readers' designs of purchasing Christmas Toys or useful gifts, should call on our Paisley friend John Graham. He is now making a large addition to his stock, adapted to the wants of the season. See advertisement.

A correspondent from North Gwillimbury informs us, as a proof of the mildness of the season, that the frogs in Lake Simcoe were singing as early on the night of the 10th of December, as at any time during the past summer - a most unusual occurrence.

We are requested to announce that a Sabbath School Tea-party will take place at Queen'sville, on New Year's Day, in the M. E. Church. All friendly to the institution are cordially invited attend. Several speakers and a good choir have been engaged for the occasion.

Mr. J. M. Rakes, late of Holland Landing, writing to us from Baltimore, says: "The Rankin Lancers are now quartered at Fort Wayne and number about 700. Fazl. Rosario, late Deputy Chief of Police, Toronto, is among the staff of officers." Mr. Rakes also informs us, that a large number of Canadians have enlisted under "Uncle Sam."

feared," &c. Is this "Liberal Conservatism?"

Alas! says, in speaking of Warren Hastings, that "if judged by no severe rules of morality" he was "bad man," and our contemporary, judging from the above, cannot possess the liberal and enlarged sentiments he would fain make his readers believe. To suit the major part of the people among whom he has cast his lot, he bows upon the word "Reformer." Yes, he is a "Reformer" - a "Conservative Reformer" - even further, a "Liberal Conservative Reformer!"

And still the wood grew.

That small bush contained all he knew. After our contemporary relieves himself of the remaining epithets in his catalogue, and the various municipal elections are over so that we have time to enter upon a friendly discussion of principles - that is, as defined by the respective parties in the House of Assembly (and we will judge them by their votes), we will be prepared to do so, with pleasure; but if low personalities and calling of naughty names, is to be the ground work, we can bethink forth to his heart's content, and we shall look upon it as a standing advertisement for our success, believing as we do, that praise from such a source would be a bad omen.

Merry Christmas!

Another issue of the Era, Christmas Day will have passed; we therefore embrace the present opportunity to wish our numerous friends and patrons the compliments of the season, hoping they may long live to enjoy many happy returns.

Christmas! How many fireside recollections the day brings back to our memory. How many homes are made to ring again with the welcome voices of returning members to the parental roof, on this joyous and festive occasion. With what delight we again enter upon familiar sports of days gone by; or unite our hearts and voices in singing good old songs of praise and thanksgiving, almost entirely forgotten. Merry Christmas: May the genial influences of the season be richly bestowed upon the patrons of the Era, is the ardent wish of the EDITOR.

Factions Worthlessness.

For the past three years we have opposed, on all sides, anything like factions, believing that, if a spirit of that kind was fostered, it would prove subversive to the best interests of the village. The experience of Governments, whether general or local, attests to the fact that factions destroy confidence and retard progress and improvement. On this point history furnishes abundant testimony. In work entitled "The Lives of Eminent Men," published by the "Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge," the biographer of Lord Somers, in detailing the difficulties he had to encounter shortly after being raised to the peerage, in consequence of faction, makes the following pointed and sage remarks, and if the citizens of this village will judiciously apply them at the forthcoming election, it will prove the inauguration of a new era in the history of our municipal existence. The writer says:

"There is, perhaps, no part of the history of England more devoid of interest than the narrative of the endless contention between the Whig and Tory factions, at the close of the 17th century; at the same time, there is no period which more clearly exhibits the utter worthlessness of faction, the inconsistencies and absurdities of party spirit, and the extent to which the real interests of the people may be neglected and injured when rival parties are struggling for power."

Now these sentiments we entirely endorse, and we will not ally ourselves to any man or set of men, whose only hope of political or local distinction rests upon the fostering of faction. The moral rectitude of the community, alike with the common justice of every well-wisher of the locality, demands that this species of fanaticism should be frowned down, in order that peace and prosperity may prevail. Take a review of the history of the past three years of this village; see the systems of attraction and repulsion; the cohesion and sundering occasioned by this spirit being engendered; and, unfortunately for the rate-payers, of every new position this hydra-headed monster has assumed, it has gained strength and found favor. We hope the electors will be wise in time.

Since last Friday's issue, municipal matters in this village have been the chief theme of discussion. The minority party have issued an address which will be found in our advertising columns; but we are rather inclined to believe it is a meaningless sort of document; "great cry but little wool." On reading the second paragraph, one fanatics some wonderful revelations are about to be disclosed, some hibernians of omission or commission about to be detailed; but all of a sudden it dwindles down to a mere assertion that "pledges" have been violated; and "tyrannical" acts committed in what respect, however, is not stated, or what the ground-work, is not set forth. One thing is certain; most people are acquainted with all the parties, will laugh at the combination when they read over the list of illustrious personages composing the "minority ticket," and which, to all appearance, is likely to be the "minority" to the end of the chapter.

Agitation increases.

Barcelona, Nov. 30. - The Italian Minister, Treco, has arrived here and was received by many of the Spanish and French Democrats.

A large ship is loading with guns and ammunition at all ports for the same destination.

The Observe states that there is no reason why the Commissioners should not be restored to the executive back of the British Admiral, in the face of twelve British men-of-war on the Potomac.

All the Garibaldian officers now in Switzerland had received orders to assemble at Geneva within a month.

London, D. C. 1, via Queenstown. - The Royal Mail steamship Europa, Captain Anderson, from Liverpool at 8 A.M., Nov. 30, arrived at 11 p.m. to-day. She was detained at Queenstown twelve hours, leaving that port on the 2nd instant. She has 57 passengers and $400,000 in specie for Boston and $45,000 for Halifax.

The steamship Jura, from Quebec, arrived at Liverpool on the 29th.

LATEST FOR "EUROPE," VIA QUEENSTOWN, Liverpool, Nov. 10, 1861. - The speculations of the American press on the San Jacinto affair are eagerly canvassed here, and the general deduction is that there is a less cause to fear a rupture between the two powers.

No doubt of it.

The People's Ticket.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting, composed of those favourable to the majority of the Council, at Boldrewood's Hotel, on Monday evening last, it was decided the following gentlemen should be put in nomination in opposition to the "Minority Ticket," viz.: Messrs. Boulter, Trent, Hecket, Millard and Jackson.

Another meeting was held last night in the Hall, at which the nomination was confirmed; at a late stage of the evening, the following gentleman, was nominated, to be the chief theme of discussion. The minority party have issued an address which will be found in our advertising columns; but we are rather inclined to believe it is a meaningless sort of document; "great cry but little wool."
